A medical marijuana patient who had his plants confiscated by police are now suing their local police department because under state law marijuana plants and marijuana must be kept in original condition.

They didn't and it looks like they're getting there arses sued :D

ha nice one (the pic) sad story though : (
what reason did they give to stop & search you then?

They thought i smelt of dope...the fools it was patouli oil...i still had to go to court and received a £50 fine....

patchouli smells nothing like dope, tossers : S that's grim, i would have thought things were more liberal 20-odd years ago than now? seems less likely the case despite all the fuss on the media (not that we watch telly).
